FAQs: Ohio Home School Notification and Laws

How is home school notification regulated in Ohio?

Ohio state regulation requires that a form be submitted 15 days prior to starting home schooling. The Home Schooling Notification Form can be found here:

<http://www.hslda.org/hs/state/md/md-noticeconsent.pdf>.

View the actual Ohio code on home schooling (notice what it does and does NOT require):

<http://codes.ohio.gov/oac/3301-34>.

For the following forms: Notification Form and two academic assessment reports — Written Narrative/Portfolio Review and Standardized Achievement Test. Scroll down to the middle of the page to find the links for each form. Alternatives to Standardized testing.

- How do I file paperwork with my school district?

Should I follow the regulations when notifying my school district of my intent to home educate?

Yes, we recommend cooperating with the regulations that govern home schooling in Ohio. Educate yourself in the regulations. Children are considered truant when they are absent from school without authorization.

When and whom should I notify?

Any child who will be age six by Sept. 30 is considered of compulsory school age according to the Ohio Revised Code 3321.01(A)(1)(2). As of 2001, however, districts have the option of making August 1 the age limit (ORC 3321.01(A)(3) - check with your district). A child must have “successfully completed kindergarten” before being admitted to first grade in a school district unless the conditions called for in ORC 3321.01(D) are met. It is strongly recommended that you notify for the kindergarten year if you intend to enroll the child in first grade in a public or chartered non-public school. Otherwise, be sure to notify the year your child will be six by Sept. 30 or August 1, depending on your school district.

What if my student is a senior and is required to do an entire year just to earn a few credits?

If your student is a senior you need to notify the superintendent of homeschooling.

If my student is a graduating senior is he/she required to take an end-of-the-year assessment or complete testing to graduate?

No, your student will not be required to provide an end-of-the-year assessment or testing to graduate.

- What do I need to share with the school?

Is there an approved form for notification?

Yes, there is a form that was developed by the advisory committee that has drafted the regulations. You can contact us for a copy or visit HSLDA.org. DO NOT use a form developed by a school district; they often ask for information not required by the regulations.

If my school district asks for information in addition to what is included on the form or in the regulations, should I provide it?

No, that is why it is important to be familiar with the regulations. Providing more information than what is required can seem harmless, but it can actually cause problems for you and others in allowing school officials more latitude than intended. While many school officials are well intentioned, some would like to challenge parents' rights to provide education for their children.

Can each school district establish its own policies for collecting information from parents?

No, they must follow the regulations provided in ORC 3301-34-03.

Should I give information to school officials over the phone?

No. It is recommended that you do all communicating with school officials in writing. This will establish records of your communication, which should be kept in a file.

Is there another option for notification besides the recommended form?

Yes, you may write a letter containing all the information required by the regulations. NHEG can provide assistance in filling out these forms for a nominal fee.

Do I need to submit a schedule?

No.

What if I receive notification from my school district that my notification was incomplete?

The superintendent must state in writing what information from (A) of OAC 3301-34-03 (the Notification Form) is missing and give the parents two options: 1) supply in writing the missing information; 2) arrange a conference with superintendent to supply the missing information. Option #1 is recommended.

What if I move during the school year and wish to continue home schooling in the new location?

Make a request in writing that the original district forward the notification and related materials to the new district in a timely manner (OAC 3301-34-03 (F)). If you move to a different state, familiarize yourself with that state's requirements as soon as possible or contact us for help again for a nominal fee.

Must my child be tested to begin home schooling? Do I need to send assessment results with my first notification?

According to OAC 3301-34-04(A), no. There is no testing requirement to begin home education.

What is the difference, in purpose, between standardized testing and a written narrative?

The testing is used to report academic proficiency. The objective for a narrative is to report a child's progress and abilities.

Can someone other than a child's own parent home school him or her?

Yes. This person should be listed in item (3) on the Notification Form, or mentioned in the letter.

Can a child be enrolled part time in public school?

This is at the discretion of the superintendent. Contact your local school district or superintendent for more information.

Can a home-schooled student play public school sports?

This question falls under the authority of the Ohio High School Athletic Association and the discretion of the school district. Contact your local school district or superintendent for more information.

How do I prepare a child to enter first grade in a public or private school?

Fill out notification paperwork for the child, even if he/she is not of compulsory school age, so that the district has his kindergarten work on record. Follow a scope and sequence or a kindergarten curriculum from a reliable publisher. Contact your local school district or superintendent for more information.

What is used to determine placement for enrollment of a home-schooled student in public school?

Placement in public school is determined by the superintendent with consideration of: 1) most recent annual test results; 2) participation in regularly scheduled testing in that district; and 3) other information deemed necessary, including interviews/assessments (ORC 3319.01). Contact your local school district or superintendent for more information.

Is a child of a certain age required to be in a certain grade level?

No. There are two choices of assessment in addition to “an alternative assessment mutually agreed upon between the parents and the superintendent.” The first option is a standardized achievement test, whereby the parents choose at what level the child tests. The second option, a written narrative, requires that the child be making “progress in accordance with the child’s abilities.”

What if my child does not test well?

A composite score below the 25th percentile requires one of four options be exercised: 1) retest; 2) choose the narrative; 3) alternative assessment agreed upon by the parents and the superintendent; 4) plan of remediation designed by the parents and submitted to the superintendent within 30 days of the request for remediation. We would advise you exercise option #1 or #2 and DO NOT report a composite score below the 25th percentile. Contact us for a list of qualified teachers for retesting or a written narrative/assessment.

What if I send only the composite score on the form or in my letter and the superintendent asks for the printout?

The form NHEG has used in the past did not state clearly that the score being reported was the COMPOSITE score. The form has now been updated to state, “The COMPOSITE results demonstrate reasonable proficiency as compared to other children in the district.” If the superintendent will not accept this form, you may contact HSDLA or CLA for advice. They have an updated form on their website for their members to use to report test scores. You may also provide the superintendent with a copy of your test scores, blacking out all personal information and scores other than the composite (or complete battery) score. Cover all the subtest scores, allowing only the header showing the testing company’s name, the student’s name at the top and the composite score about halfway down the page to show. Make a copy and send that to the superintendent.

What is a written narrative and who can do it?

A certified teacher or person agreed upon by the parent and superintendent reviews a portfolio of the child’s work. Contact us to be put in touch with a qualified person.

To whom do I send my notification?

A list of addresses for Ohio counties and various states can be found by visiting <http://www.hslda.org/laws/default.asp>. Or visit the NHEG website under “legal issues” and look up the file “Notification Procedures.” You can find this by using the search box.

Where can I find additional information about home schooling in Ohio?

New Heights Educational Group (www.NewHeightsEducation.org) can work with you every step of the way, including helping you choose the right curriculum for your family, for a nominal fee. Here are some other helpful links with additional information: www.cheohome.org, www.hslda.org and www.christianlaw.org.

What are my curriculum options?

Pamela Clark prefers the following curriculum: Natural Speller by Kathryn Stout for Spelling, Phonics and English, Latin Road to Reading; Teaching Textbooks and Rod and Staff Math programs; English/Language Arts - Penn and Foster Main Idea Study Units, and Latin Road to English; For History - Guides to History by Kathryn Stout; Science - ABEKA.
